

TAXICAB RATES TO BE PROBED

Public Utilities Commission Makes Announcement of Investigation in City.

TO ESTABLISH CHARGES

Action Comes After Exposure of Conditions by The Washington Herald.

Closed upon The Washington Herald's exposure of exorbitant taxicab charges in Washington came a formal notice from the Public Utilities Commission yesterday to the effect that this body intends to thoroughly investigate the taxicab business in the District of Columbia and to establish a schedule of charges which will be just to the public and to the cab companies.

People of Washington complain that the present charges are prohibitive. These charges are 75 cents for the first mile and 40 cents for each succeeding mile. They are materially higher than the charges of the New York tariff. They are from three to four times greater than cab rates in the large capitals abroad.

One independent taxicab operator estimated that a taxicab costs 20 cents a mile to operate. This charge of 20 cents a mile, said, covers the cost of labor, gasoline, wear and tear on the machine, cost of repairs, tires, garage fees, taxes, and special license fees. He said that he could meet all these expenses and make a handsome profit at a flat charge of 25 cents a mile. He does not, however, pay a high tribute to local hotels.

On the plea of protecting their guests, the hotel management have exclusive rights for cash to the public places surrounding their places to certain cab companies. The way these deals are closed will possibly prove of interest to the utility commission. According to a statement of a taxicab official (and this statement was made in defense of the hotel), the following circumlocutory method of bargain is employed:

The hotel rents an exclusive cab service for its guests. In this part of the transaction the hotel is the paying party. The favored cab company submits data concerning its facilities for properly carrying for the traffic and copies of its tariff to the hotel. If satisfactory, the hotel "rents" the service. It makes payment by promise that cab company will have the exclusive right to use the public air space around its place of business. It also promises to keep the streets there. The cab companies pay a bonus of "real money," which is a percentage of every fare carried from such sections of public thoroughfares in which the hotel has property rights, to the hotel management for the privilege of receiving imaginary "rent." This will possibly be required to be explained by the utility body.

People who use taxicabs in Washington pay a percentage of their fare to hotel, restaurant, and wine room for the kindness of the management of these various places in permitting the public streets to be used. This percentage is disguised in the 20-cent-a-mile cost of operation.

That these things will be investigated is the statement of the utility body in a report forwarded to Congress yesterday. This report was an unfavorable one to a bill introduced by a Senator of California to fix and regulate rates and charges by taxicab companies and other vehicles. The Commissioners explained that it was the business of the utility commission to establish and enforce rates.

Mrs. Harriman to Get Job PLACE ON INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION Society Leader to Draw Pay

MRS. J. BORDEN HARRIMAN.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, New York society leader and niece of E. H. Harriman, the railroad magnate, is to have the honor of being the first woman to be appointed by the President to serve on a commission with nationwide influence, according to a report at the White House last night.

President Wilson, it was stated at the Executive Mansion, will name Mrs. Harriman as one of the three "Presidential appointees" on the Industrial Commission, the names of which will probably go to the Senate within a few days. The President has long followed Mrs. Harriman's work in reconciling labor and capital in New York, and it is believed that he intends to offer her the place on the commission as a recognition of her good work and the results she has obtained in the Empire State.

The other names which will be sent to the Senate are problematical, except that it is practically certain that Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, and John Mitchell, labor leader, will be two of the three "labor" men on the commission, which is composed of three labor appointees, three capital representatives, and three persons having no immediate connection with either party. President Taft nominated an Industrial Commission, but like the great majority of his late nominations, it was never confirmed.

CHEVY CHASE NOW HAS NEW POSTOFFICE

Opening of Branch Station in Suburb Causes House-warming and Reception.

With addresses by prominent postal officials and the presentation of an interesting literary and musical programme, a house-warming and reception was held last night at the Chevy Chase Library, under the direction of the Chevy Chase Association, for the purpose of celebrating the opening of the new branch post-office at the fashionable Washington suburb.

Addresses were delivered by Charles P. Grantfield, former First Assistant Postmaster General; Louis J. Robinson, Assistant Washington Postmaster; William T. S. Curtis, member of the board of trustees of the Chevy Chase Association, and Superintendent Murphy, in charge of the newly established branch.

Mr. Robinson said the Chevy Chase branch was one of the finest he had ever seen, and congratulated the citizens of the suburb upon securing such an attractive building. He explained in detail the manner of delivering mail. Dr. Grantfield spoke of the method of operation of branch offices. Mr. Curtis gave an interesting account of the history of the community, and Superintendent Murphy told those present how the branch office was operated.

Several musical selections were sung here. Ralph P. Barnard, Mr. Barnard, president of the association, presided. Several recitations were given by John Payne. Following the exercises, an informal reception was held, and a thorough inspection of the new branch office was made. The library has recently been remodelled and an addition built for the purpose of housing the branch postoffice. It was opened for business June 1.

Man Attempts Suicide.

Frank P. White, a painter, forty-three years old, of 315 I Street Southeast, took a quantity of poison yesterday afternoon with suicidal intent. After taking the poison he concluded he preferred to live. At the Casualty Hospital a stomach pump was used and physicians expect him to recover.

Curiosity Once Killed a Cat.

Albert Washington, a twelve-year-old colored boy, of 22 Parker Street Northeast, found a railroad dynamite cap, and, anxious to learn how much noise it would make, struck it with a brick. He was badly hurt on the hands. His wounds were treated at Casualty Hospital.

Hospital Attendant Fined.

Carl J. Brendon, an attendant at the Government Hospital for the Insane, was fined $20 by Judge James Fugh, in the Police Court yesterday, for kicking William H. Roland, an inmate, last Sunday morning. Brendon claimed Roland was unruly and that he acted in self-defense.

Chance to Aid Helpless.

An opportunity to aid a helpless crippled woman is offered by Rev. C. Herbert Reese, of St. Thomas Episcopal Church. Mr. Reese last night informed The Washington Herald that the woman, who has been supported by his church for the past year, should be removed from her present quarters. Mr. Reese believes that if a proper room could be provided for her at a small cost her comfort could be assured.
